Says Watson Lady, "As To What Cardui Has Done For Me, So As To Help Others."

Watson, W. Va. Mrs. S. W. Gladwell of this town, says: "When about 15 years of age, I suffered greatly. Sometimes I would be a month or two, and I had terrible headaches, backache, and bearing down pains, and would just drag and had no appetite. Then it would last two weeks, and was so weakening, and my health was awful. My mother bought me a bottle of Cardui, and I began to improve after taking the first bottle, so kept it up till I took three. I gained, and was well and strong, and I owe it all to Cardui. I am married now and have 3 children. I have never had to have a doctor for female trouble, and just resort to Cardui if I need a tonic. I am glad to testify to what it has done for me, so as to help others."

If you are nervous or weak, have headaches, backaches, or any of the other ailments so common to women, why not give Cardui a trial? Recommended by many physicians. In use over 40 years. Begin taking Cardui today. It may be the very medicine you need.

The Prophet

That wise old owl, Prince Bismarck, could bore a hole in the future as deep as any statesman who was ever born. He saw the willful Wilhelm reaching for the reins of power, developing a state trained to worship the throne meddled with an autocratic hand in world politics and so Bismarck cast this horoscope for his master: "He will one day lay a trump card—he will play it at the wrong time, and he will ruin his country."

The prophecy, with but a change of tenses would serve as an epitaph.

Arsenate of Lime Effective.

A Michigan orchardist used about a ton of homemade arsenate of lime this year in comparison with arsenate of lead and received equally good results in spraying to control the codling moth, according to reports to the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture. He effected the use of the arsenate and plans to use it again next year. Reports as a whole indicate better results than usual in the control of the codling moth by orchardists in Michigan.

Don't Sell the Family Cow.

This might appear to many to be a good time to sell the family cow or the family dairy herd, because prices for cows are high and it is easy to sell; but suppose you do sell? What is gained? Prices of milk and butter are high—seem higher when you buy than when you sell. Perhaps we are crossing the "stream" referred to by Abraham Lincoln when he advised against swapping horses while crossing a stream. In any case, will it not be better if the family cow and the family dairy are kept by those who know how to make them most productive?

Save Good Yearling Hens.

Among farmers generally it is the common practice to sell the hens that are past a year old for poultry when they stop laying in the fall. Under the usual conditions this is good policy, for a rule only about half of the flock lay well enough the second year to be profitable, and the farmer who has pullets enough to replace all his old hens sees no advantage in keeping any of them over.

This year, however, those patriotic farmers who desire to do their part to increase the poultry and egg supplies will find it desirable to retain a considerable proportion of the yearling hens. Farmers in the corn belt especially will find it to their interest to hold all the good yearling hens they have, making such addition to their poultry house equipment as may be necessary to properly accommodate both pullets and hens. Overcrowding must be avoided, as neither pullets nor hens will do their best.

Democracy and Autocracy

Where there is no vision the people will perish, but he who keepeth the law happy is he.

Democracy is an organism composed of human beings capable of growth or of degeneration, of constructive patriotism or of anarchy, of loyalty or disloyalty, of waste or of thrift, of physical health or of disease. Every citizen in a democracy is either a liability or an asset, an affirmative influence or a negative influence.

Democracy is a spiritual life, its units are human beings. If a citizen is down, the flag is down. If the citizen occupies the hilltops of his own life, the flag will have a commanding position on the hilltops of American life. It takes sterling character to support and perpetuate liberty, to make "freedom" a reality in the nation's life.

We can sharpen a pencil by putting it into a pencil sharpener and turning a crank; we can make a wooden box by sawing off some pieces of plank and nailing them together, but we cannot make a democracy in that way. It must be grown, it cannot be achieved in any other way. The only thing we can do is to defend its sacred principles and give it the elements and environments of life and permit it to grow. The only thing we can do is to plant it by the "rivers of water" and let it grow.

The glory of a democracy is not in its material possessions but in its expanding ideals, not in its capacity to receive but in its capacity to give and its willingness to serve humanity. Service is its highest mission.

FARMER TO HELP MAINTAIN FREEDOM HE HELPED WIN

In the first Liberty Loan Campaign, many of the farmers of the country were not reached, and subscriptions from the rural communities were few.

There were several reasons for this, the foremost of which was that the loan was put out in the spring, when they were busy with their crops and it was difficult for the canvassers to interview them.

Then, too, they had to borrow money for their planting. Now their crops in, and at the present high price of food stuffs they should have a large sum of money in their hands.

For a loan of a portion of that money, the Liberty Bond campaigners are now appealing all over the country. The various farm bureaus and societies are co-operating and good results are expected.

When liberty came to America the farmer helped to bring it. He carried the gun, he contributed unsparsingly of his substance; he fed the armies. In the present struggle for universal liberty it is certain he will do no less.

He has already made splendid response to the demand for greater food production. The first loan largely overlooked the farmer—the efforts were concentrated in the cities.

The second campaign should give every opportunity for farmers as individuals and their organizations to support the government in its financial program. It is the highest expression of Americanism that all the people should help carry the common load in this critical hour.

KULTUR MUST BE ENDED NOW FOR ALL TIME

"Buy more Liberty Bonds than you can see your way clear to paying for. Buy them and cut your expenses and use your savings to meet the payments."

This was the message given to Missouri patriots by R. Goodwin Rhett, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in addressing a meeting of Liberty Loan workers in St. Louis.

"We must make a sacrifice equal to that which our boys are making. Buying bonds does not fulfill the first principle of this sacrifice," Rhett said. Rhett declared that oratory and publicity will not suffice to make the bond sale a success. He advocated a systematic canvass of every city and every precinct in the nation.

"There can be no peace as long as kultur is a vital force in the world," Rhett declared. "It must be ended now and forever."

SUCCESS OF LOAN VITAL TO U. S. DECLARES McADOO

Recent issue of bonds during the war with Germany would impair the credit of this country, with disastrous results, is the warning being voiced by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo in his speaking tour of the country in the interest of the Second Liberty Loan.

"If the credit of the United States is undermined," the Secretary declares, "what is property worth to the rich man; what is life worth to the free man?"

Mother Shipton's Prophecy.

Mother Shipton was an English prophetess about whose existence there seems to be no certainty while there is no doubt that many of the sayings attributed to her were fabricated by others. According to S. Baker, who published Mother Shipton's pretended prophecies in 1797, she was born near Knaresborough, Yorkshire, in July, 1488, and baptized as Ursula Southiel. She died, according to the same authority, at over 70 years of age, but it was not until 1611 that a pamphlet appeared containing some of her alleged predictions. In 1645 all of her prophecies were considered as having been fulfilled. 1832 a prediction was made with Mother Shipton's name attached to it, that the world would come to an end in 1881. It caused some excitement among the ignorant. All events predicted have happened except the prophecy in the last two lines:

Carriages without horses will go. Around the world thought shall fly In the twinkling of an eye.

Water shall yet more wonders do, Now strange, yet shall be true. The world upside down shall be, And gold found at root of tree. Through hills man shall ride, And no horse or ass be at his side.

Under water man shall walk, Shall ride, shall sleep, shall talk. In the air men shall be seen, In white, in black, in green. Iron in water shall float. As easy as a wooden boat. Gold shall be found mid stone, In a land that's now unknown. Fire and water shall wonders do, England shall at last admit a Jew. And the world to an end shall come In eighteen hundred and eighty-one.

Frank G. Carpenter.

Frank George Carpenter, the American traveler and correspondent, was born in Mansfield, O., May 3, 1855. In 1877 he graduated from the University of Worcester, and two years later began newspaper work in the Cleveland, Ohio, correspondent of In 1881 he traveled in Europe, and following year he was the Washington correspondent of the Leader; in 1884 the correspondent of the American Press Association; in 1887 the New York World; and from 1888 to 1889 made a trip around the world for a newspaper syndicate and the Cosmopolitan magazine.

Carpenter went to Mexico on a newspaper tour in 1891; to Russia, Germany and England in 1892, and to China, Japan and Korea in 1894. Later he traveled in South America, Java, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. A few years ago he completed his second trip around the world.

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number Four

Military Training Necessary for Safety and Defense.

"Say, Uncle Dan," said Billie, "Jimmie and I have been looking up about war in the encyclopedia at school. We found that in the war between Germany and France in 1870-71, Germany lost in killed and wounded 25,000 soldiers while France lost about six times as many, and besides that, she lost every battle. We asked Professor Slocum why this was. He said that the German army was highly trained and ably commanded, while the French soldiers were poorly trained; and that their war department was honeycombed with jealousy and politics; that the officers were not much good, and that's why France lost the war and so many men. What do you think about it, Uncle Dan?"

"Well," said Uncle Dan, "Professor Slocum is right. By inefficiency France lost that war, together with two of her best provinces—Alsace and Lorraine—and had to pay a billion dollars indemnity money. France today learned her lesson by that sad experience, so she put in universal military training, and as a result, her soldiers now know how to fight and how to protect themselves. They are losing less men in the war than the Germans. France also put politics out of her war department, so that expert authority, instead of bureaucratic stupidity, now directs the army. The result is, France has one of the best and most efficient armies every assembled, and this shows what thorough training and good leadership means in warfare. This saved France in this crisis, as well as the liberties of the world."

"As war is now conducted, there is no place for an untrained man. A body of 10,000 well trained soldiers properly handled could defeat five times their number of raw recruits and do it every time with comparatively small loss to themselves. Proper training alone will reduce the death and casualty rate one-third of what it otherwise would be, and right here is an unanswerable argument for universal military training."

"Our government has no moral right to force her men into war service without properly training them for it. To do so is simply murder, hence the frantic effort that is now being made to give her soldiers some training before they are sent to the front. If we are to win this war, it will take trained men to do it, and it will take trained men to win any other war that may come upon us in the future. If we must fight, let us fight to win and not Continuing, Uncle Dan said: "Our government has expended about $300,000,000 to put up cantonments and training stations in order to train the men called by the selective draft. When these men are trained the training stations should be immediately filled with younger men, say those in their nineteenth year, to receive six months of intensive military training along the lines of the Chamberlain bill. This will be of immeasurable benefit to them individually. It will do them more good than any other two years of their whole life; it will make them strong, manly, self-reliant, quick to see and quick to act; it will equip them for a successful life. In short it will rebuild American manhood and will also give the government a body of trained men to draw from in case it is necessary to defend our flag and country. We must settle this question of universal military training immediately, otherwise these training camps may be demolished. The adoption of universal military training will be no notice to the world that from then on we will be prepared to defend ourselves promptly and efficiently, and this will do more to keep us out of war in the future than anything else we could do."

"Do you think, brother," said Mrs. Graham, "that there will ever be another war?"

"I have no doubt about it," said Uncle Dan. "So long as men are selfish, so long as nations are ambitious to acquire territory, so long as population presses and demands more room, so long as there remains a scramble for world trade—so long wars will be. When the time comes that we reach the high plane for which we hope and dream, when all will recognize the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, then, and then only, will wars cease. When that day comes doors will need no locks, banks will need no vaults to protect their treasures, but that day is a long way off."

"The only safe and sane plan is to be able to defend ourselves at all times. Therefore, every citizen should insist that senators and congressmen shall provide for universal military training, so that never again shall the country be caught so completely unready as this war found us. Fortunately in this case, our enemy has been held back, so we have had a few months in which to prepare. This advantage probably will never come again. It is however our salvation today."

"Because she was ready, Switzerland is an island of peace in a sea of war. Safety first is good, but safety always is better. In strength there is safety. You never saw a tin can tied to the tail of a bulldog. There is a reason."

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color, and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Hog Increase Is Necessary.

The Department of Agriculture issues the following:

To win the war we must need more meat. To get an increased meat supply quickly hog breeding must be increased materially throughout the country, and in certain States an increase of from 25 to 50 per cent in the number of hogs is recommended.

The situation is of great importance. We must have plenty of meat for our armies and the armies of the allies in the field and sufficient meat for our civilian population of the allies at home. To have this meat, breeding animals must reproduce themselves so the offsprings will be available for slaughter in the future.

Hogs can be increased quicker than any other kind of live stock. Therefore a larger number of sows must be bred now than in recent years. The increase needed for the entire country is 15 per cent.

The road along which the man of business travels in pursuit of happiness or wealth is not a macadamized one, nor does it ordinarily lead by pleasant scenes and well-springs of delight, on the contrary, it is a rough and rugged path, beset with "wait-a-bit" thorns and full of pitfalls, which can only be avoided by the watchful care of circumspection. After every day's journey over this rough turnpike road, the wayfarer needs something more than the rest, he requires and solace he deserves. He is weary of the dull prose of life and athirst for poetry at home. Warm greetings from happy hearts fond greetings from bright eyes, the shouts from children, and the port and enjoyment that all of thoughtful and expectant love, the gentle ministrations that disencumber us into an old easy seat before we are aware of it these and little tokens of affection and sympathy constitutes the poetry that reconciles us to the prose in life.

Words of cheer are words of help words of gloom are words of harm There is a bright side and a dark side to every phase of life and to every hour of time. If we speak of the bright side, we bring the brightness into prominence, if we speak of the dark side, we deepen the shadows. It is in our power to help or to hinder by a word and every person whom we are with. If we see a look of health or hope in the face of an acquaintance whom we casually meet, and we tell him so, he goes on his way with new life in his veins. If we see a look of failing strength and of heaviness in heart in one to whom we speak and we emphasize the fact that he looks poorly, we give him a push downward as our contribution to the forces which effect his course.

An idle and vacant life, even with all the aid amusement can give, is not calculated to be a happy one, and this simply because Providence has constituted us with a view to activity, as that was to be the means of accommodating the raw materials of the physical world to our needs. Idleness therefore injures and disorganizes, while activity alone will preserve health and prolong life. Who are the happy people of this world? Those who have something and not too much to do, that something being suitable to their taste. Who are the unhappy ones? Alas! What a large portion of the class is composed of those who, have all their needs supplied from other sources who do not need to labor.

The best capital, in nine cases out of ten, a young man can start in the world is robust health, sound morals, a fair intelligence, a will to work his way honestly, bravely, and if it be possible a trade, whether he follows it for a livelihood or not. He can always fall back on a trade when other paths are closed. The path of success in business is invariably the path of common sense. Notwithstanding all that is said about "lucky hits," the best kind of success in every man's life, is not that which comes by accident. The only "good time coming" we are justified in hoping for is that which we ourselves create.

Sometimes I have wished to conduct a woman's column in a great newspaper, for the one and singular purpose of saying over and over again to young women, by all the diversity of forms that I could command, this fundamental truth, that the soul photographs itself upon the face. There is no cosmetic like beautiful and unselfish thoughts. As a woman thinketh in her heart, so is she on her face. If you are lovely within, God will set His angels to work at painting that loveliness in your eyes and on your lips and cheeks. This is an eternal law. Would that all of us might learn it before it is too late.

The best thing anybody can do for the institution of the home in general, for example, is to make his own home happy and wholesome. The finest service any woman can render the cause of womanhood elsewhere is by living a sweet and beautiful and noble life herself. And we do most for the cause of democracy in China and Russia and even in Germany when we stand steady and strong for the ideals of democracy in our own beloved land.

The American Red Cross war council has appropriated one and a quarter million dollars for emergency relief work in Roumania. W. H. Anderson, chairman of the Red Cross commission to Roumania, has cabled Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Red Cross war council, of a shortage of food, and especially food fats. The military hospitals also are in need of bedding and surgical and medical supplies in large quantities. No supplies of this kind are available there.

My public work brings its own reward here and now, if out of many efforts, there comes some permanent good. But my faith in people is my one Christlike attribute and is a treasure that I feel sure will be resurrected with me. With it as a chart and compass, I feel sure that I may meet my Pilot face to face. Already it has steered me past many a dangerous shoal and reef and through storms of adversity.

With all the woe that it has wrought upon the earth, this war has also brought many boons, not the least of them being a passion for large patriotism. Rich and poor, wise and illiterate, are vying with each other to do service for the nation in its hour of need. In all time there has been no greater ends as has been witnessed during the past three years.

Home Demonstration Agent

Miss Lillian Brasher, of Hopkinsville has come to us to serve Marshall county as Home Demonstration Agent. Miss Brasher came here direct from Lexington where she has completed a course of instruction under Miss Hanna Westling, one of the national experts in Home Economics work.

Miss Brasher impresses us as a thoroughly professional woman, experienced, willing and capable to do the work assigned to her.

It is Miss Brasher's plan to select five schools as community centers where she will give a carefully outlined course, one demonstration a week. Next week demonstrations will be given as follows:

Monday, New Constitution.
Tuesday, Olive.
Wednesday, Oak Level.
Thursday, Briensburg.
Friday, Sharpe.

Miss Brasher is anxious that not only all the women and girls in the school districts mentioned will take advantage of the opportunities thus offered but that all the precincts will respond.

Cattlemen Advise To Buy cotton Seed.

Cattlemen of the drought-stricken Southwest are advised by the United States Food Administration to buy their cottonseed cake as it is needed rather than to purchase the entire winter's supply for their cattle at once. This will render the situation as to price and supply less acute than at present.

After a careful survey the Food Administration finds that there will be a full supply of this material and probably a surplus owing to the embargo of exports.

Barkly Sets Record In Speechmaking.

Congressman Alben W. Barkley returned to Paducah Sunday evening after a strenuous day's speaking trip through a part of the Purchase. He filed his Sunday program of Y. M. C. A. war addresses with the exception of the Wickliffe date booked for Sunday night. An unusually hard rain caught the congressman and his party while enroute from Mayfield in their automobile and forced them to run for cover. The Wickliffe trip was given up and a big audience there expecting to hear Mr. Barkley was of necessity disappointed. Sunday morning Congressman Barkley spoke to a large audience at Paducah, where he heard him in the afternoon.

HOME READING.

The test of our heroism must come. Some time in every human life, this problem must be decided. That the world exists, that stars gleam, that flowers bloom, that men live, are not more actual realities in the realm of fact than that before every one is placed the choice of good or evil. It is within the province of every individual to say, whether his character shall be luminous or lustreless. And in the hour when the valley of decision is entered, and choice must be made, comes the test which must determine whether he or she is of heroic mould. The pathway of human existence is lined with wrecks of those who could not stand the test when the supreme hour came. When they heard the call they could not say, "Here am I; send me." They have involved a sacrifice which they deemed it cruelty for them to be called upon to make. Why forego the pleasure of the moment with so little prospect of satisfactory substitution? The opportunity lost—then the long period of regret.

MODERN LIVING

Modern living is a complex affair, greatly in contrast with the simple modes of life of the earlier Americans and of their immediate descendants. All the appliances which have been invented—notably during the past generation to give heightened comfort to the home and to make labor easier have added to this complexity of living and most materially to its cost. How materially, one would hardly believe until he had studied the matter for himself and discovered beyond a question that to-day a man cannot support a wife and bring up one child, living in a comfortable and not at all lavish manner, upon what his ancestor would have considered sufficient to rear a large family. He cannot do it on what it cost his ancestor of only two generations ago. As men and women are educated and taught to think for themselves, they will no longer follow blindly the lead of the so-called "fashionable" set, but will recognize the charm of independent modes of thought and life, and will permit themselves to live according to their own ideals and in their own ways. They will see the folly of attempting to imitate the methods of the millionaire on the income of the average business or professional man, but will live their own lives, happy in doing the things which they really care to do, instead of the things which they do just because somebody else does them.

WHAT DOES OUR TOWN NEED?

As one who reads and admires your Home Circle Department and who believes it is moulding public opinion and doing good, we would contribute a few thoughts taking for our text: "What is the best thing that could happen to our town in 1918?"

If there are circumstances to be changed, or evils to be averted, it is folly to hide our heads—ostrich-like in their presence. It is not sane nor safe to simply paint the pump of a poisoned well, or shoot the faithful dog for barking at the burglar. "No man liveth to himself." Somebody was responsible for the inquisition of the Iroquois—for the hell and holocaust kindled on the sacred path of the happy holidays. The curse causeless shall not come. Not earthquakes, famine or tempest but man himself is his own worst foe; the greatest menace to his kind. Man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn. Every one helps to mend or mar the fabric of the future. Water does not go higher or get better than its source. Human effort strives in vain to purify the stream of life if a hog happens to be hidden in the fountain. Only good trees produce good fruit. The magnolia pouring perfume from a hundred thousand chastened cups received its strength and support from roots beneath the soil and its sweetness from the dew. So our security rests upon the ground and granite virtues of truth, honor and fidelity, our success is a quotation of worship, righteous and charity from above. Business clubs, labor unions, political parties, social guilds and ecclesiastical machinery have their place and part; but they stand only in the genuine court, while integrity, industry, patriotism, friendship and true religion occupy the heart's "holy of holies"—the royal arcanum of the soul. Get right with God and do unto others as you would have others do unto you.

What our city needs in 1918, and all along the weary waste of years—is a "Pentecost of Spiritual Responsibility," a clearer vision of moral oughtness; a vice-like grip on the eternal and ethical imperative; a fresh baptism of brotherliness; every able man faithfully employed at fair compensation; stainless honesty in every business house; peace, purity and plenty in every home; a vacant jail, full schools and churches; cards and vice relieved from their active service; every humbug retired from duty as soon as their copyrights expire; the papers realizing that many things not as news are plainly worth attention; and much parading as the news before a curious public ought to perish a foundling on the inhospitable doorstep of a friendless notice; respectable citizens so keeping the Sabbath and obeying law—human and divine, in letter and spirit, that the evil inclined of the community may be shamed into courses of law and order or at least find no encouragement or extenuations for his violation. And finally exalt man and merit above money; sense above sensation; enlightenment above entertainment; conscience above cold calculation; God above our greatness, greed or glory. For righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people. If these suggestions meet with your approval will be pleased to read them in your Home Circle Department.

A READER.

Mrs. P. O. Stuchell Tells How She Cured Her Son of a Cold.

"When my son Ellis was sick with a cold last winter I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It helped him at once and quickly broke up his cold," writes Mrs. P. O. Stuchell, Homer City, Pa. This remedy has been in use for many years. Its good qualities have been fully proven by many thousands of people. It is pleasant and safe to take.

WHILE AT WAR

Women of Ky. Suffer at Home.

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY.—"I can never thank Dr. Pierce enough for what his medicines has done for me. When my third child came I had nursing sore mouth and was so weak I could hardly walk. My baby also suffered. I got medicine from our family physician but it did me no good; I grew worse instead of better, so almost in despair I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had taken half a bottle I felt like a different woman and when I had finished taking one bottle I was almost well. I believe I would be in my grave had it not been for this medicine."—MRS. EMMA PEAK, R. R. A, Box 314.

LONGSTREET, KY.—"A few years ago my health failed. I suffered with ulceration, inflammation, heart trouble, hysteria, nervousness and sleeplessness. No tongue can tell how I suffered. I consulted two physicians but neither seemed to do any good. Finally I quit the doctors and sent to Indiana for some medicine, but it also failed to give relief. Then a neighbor advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and soon was able to do my housework. I have forgotten exactly how many bottles I used, but I gained twenty-five pounds. The 'Prescription' is the best remedy in the world for women."—MRS. ELIZA BROWN.

"Favorite Prescription," the ever-famous friend to ailing women, and "Golden Medical Discovery," the greatest general tonic, are both put up in liquid and tablets, and are to be found in nearly all drug stores. They have enjoyed an immense sale for nearly 50 years, which proves their merits as well as the statements made by users. If not obtainable at your dealer's send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and he will mail trial package of either tablets.

Live Stock.

Ample provision for the sheltering and feeding of the live stock for the winter should be made. All surplus male stock be sold and other undesirable animals should be sold. It is very desirable, however that female live stock at all suitable for breeding purposes be not disposed of at this time.

Carelessness Results In Failures.

That is why we say "Feed B. A. Thomases' Hog Powder according to directions." DO NOT FEED IT SLOPPY, but mix it with ground feed and moisten with just enough water to make a crumbly mass. Then each hog gets a beneficial dose. See full directions on each package. Money back if you are not satisfied. —Mrs. B. Matus.
